

"HYPHEN ALL ROT" SAYS PRESIDENT OF GERMAN ALLIANCE

German-Americans Most Loyal and Law-abiding Citizens of U. S. in Every Crisis Says Hexamer

WANT PRO-AMERICAN POLICY

Object to Weak-kneed Attitude Which Makes U. S. Tail of the British Kite

Dr. Hexamer's Views
"Talk about 'hyphenated Americans' is all rot. It was started for political purposes by Theodore Roosevelt, who made a great political mistake in thinking he could thus gain the support of a certain element."

"An international embargo on arms, observed by all nations at all times, would do more for universal peace than all the peace societies of the world."

"The cry for armament in the United States just now is largely hysteria, fomented by moneyed men who are interested in the manufacture of arms."

"European militarism is unnecessary in the United States. The two oceans on either side of us make it impossible to land any formidable army on our coasts."

"Every American young man should join the militia."

"The German-American wants a sound pro-American policy. With all his might he opposes a policy that would make the United States a trucking handmaid of England."

"German-Americans have absolutely nothing to do with troubles in American munitions plants. They are the most loyal and law-abiding class of our citizens."

Indignant denial that the "hyphenated American" is any other than a true and loyal citizen of the United States was entered here today by Dr. Charles J. Hexamer, of Philadelphia, president of the National German-American Alliance, who will speak at a meeting this evening in Germania hall. The policy of the United States in regard to English interference with our commerce has been weak-kneed, Dr. Hexamer believes, but in their opposition to a pro-English attitude, the German-Americans yield nothing of their Americanism. In fact, they are the better patriots for their attitude, Dr. Hexamer believes.

Theodore Roosevelt has made a great mistake, Dr. Hexamer said. "He began the talk of the 'hyphen' for political purposes. He will do anything, in his monumental egotism, which will be of advantage to himself. But he has succeeded only in alienating the German-Americans, who were among his staunchest supporters."

Must Pull Together
"In order for this republic to succeed it is absolutely necessary that we all pull together in unity. Any man who for personal or other reasons causes racial strife and friction among the elements of our people is committing a serious crime against the body politic."

The German-American is the most loyal and law-abiding of our citizens. In every great national crisis they have been distinguished by the common sense, logic and calmness free from hysteria which they have discussed national problems. They made immense sacrifices in money and blood to free our country from England, and to save the union in the war of the rebellion.

"At the time of the flat money craze—the greenback and silver money swindle—it was the calm, sane Americans of German birth and extraction who saved the country from dishonor by without regard to party, voting for sound money."

Pro-American Policy
"The German-American wants and asks for nothing but a sound pro-American policy, not pro-German, and certainly not pro-English. His motto is 'America for Americans' and not for England. He wants a strong, independent American policy, and with all his might opposes a policy which would make the United States a trucking handmaid of England."

"We fought for our liberties in 1776, and it should be the pride of every true American to preserve them from entangling alliances. It is a disgrace to a great and free people to be humiliated into the role of a tail for the English kite."

In answer to a question, Dr. Hexamer declared that the foregoing was intended in part as a criticism of the American policy toward England.

BOUNCER CAUSES LOTS OF TROUBLE FOR PEACE SHIP PROSPECTIVES

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Henry Ford's bouncer nearly put the peace cruise badly out of joint today.

Not only did he barely miss eliminating Dr. Charles A. Ake, one of the expedition's brightest stars, from among the passengers but he frightened numerous other invited guests so badly, concerning the accommodations they are likely to receive, that a number are considering cancellation of their acceptances.

"I don't know what cabin you'll have," he informed one applicant for information, "and it doesn't matter anyway, for you'll have to take what you're given, even if it's in the steerage. You'll be merely a guest and mustn't find fault."

"May I see Mr. Ford?" inquired another caller. "I'm Mr. McClure—plainly implying 'S.S.'"

"I know three McClures," said the Bouncer. "What's your other name?"

Dr. Ake was as far as the elevator after his rebuff at the bouncer's hands before Louis P. Lochner, Ford's chief lieutenant, having heard of the incident by chance, overtook him and dragged him back.

Bryan May Go on Cruise
William Jennings Bryan, who it is said at peace headquarters, may yet accompany the cruise, is scheduled to call on Skipper Ford late today.

The cruise management is confident all passports will be ready by the Oscar II's sailing hour—2 p. m. tomorrow. If the state department is delaying matters peace headquarters does not know it. One hundred and sixty were accounted for at noon. This was considered to be very satisfactory rapid work.

Ford's application went to Washington last night. Lochner received his passport today. The Rev. Dr. Jenkin Lloyd Jones is having great difficulty to get one at all because his father, who was foreign born, lost his naturalization papers.

The state department's refusal to issue passports to any belligerent countries caused no regrets on the peace ranks. There was no intention to visit any but neutral lands, it is said.

Ford Makes Will
His will having been made leaving his business interests to his son, Ford visited the Oscar II today to see that all preparations have been made for his guests' accommodations. Then he returned to the Biltmore for a series of conferences with his lieutenants. The Oscar II it was announced, will fly the "international" flag, the suggestion of Roger Babson, the economist and international political writer.

Belated applicants for accommodations on the Oscar II were thicker than ever at peace headquarters today. They overburdened the elevators and filled the corridors, but few if any got to Skipper Ford of the peace ship. The efficient bouncer attended to them.

Passports Issued
WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The passports of Henry Ford, Judge and Mrs. Ben B. Lindsey of Denver, and a number of the Ford peace party, were granted by the state department today.

Government Connection Disclaimed
An official statement disclaiming any government interest in Henry Ford's peace ship or its passengers was in prospect today. Inquiries made informally by European embassies brought up the question of a possible disavowal. Foreign diplomats have been informally advised that this government regards the Ford party merely as tourists.

MAD PRIEST WHO SHOT BISHOP IS SENT TO ASYLUM

Acquitted of Murderous Assault Charge on Plea of Insanity Yesterday Afternoon

Rev. L. M. Lesches, priest who shot Bishop Patrick R. Heffron, at mass on August 27, was this morning committed to the St. Peter asylum for criminal insane by District Judge Geo. W. Granger in Winona. Father Lesches was acquitted but declared insane by a jury in Judge Granger's court yesterday afternoon.

The verdict, which occasioned little surprise because of the great flood of testimony supporting the plea of the defense, came after the jury had been out exactly forty-five minutes. The jurors retired at 3:45 and at 4:30 the findings were reported to Judge Granger.

A day that held the undivided attention of a large number of persons in the district court closed with little of the excitement usually associated with such important cases. The defendant had sat throughout the entire day in one of the chairs against the railing, and where he could see the witnesses. He did not, however, observe them yesterday. Far down in his seat, he remained with his hand shading his eyes, which were closed. He scarcely moved. When the jury retired for deliberations he was led back to the county jail. Forty-five minutes later he was hurriedly brought back into the chamber and occupied the accustomed seat. He seemed unaffected when the verdict was read.

Mayor A. A. Bentley and the four other local delegates to the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association convention at Quincy are on their way home with "the bacon" today. The convention, at its closing session yesterday voted to accept the invitation to come to La Crosse for its 1916 gathering. Other honor was paid to La Crosse in the re-election of Alderman William Torrance as Wisconsin vice president of the association.

La Crosse won the convention in competition with Keokuk, Iowa. The city on the west side of the Cooper dam put in its bid a day late, but made a strong fight for the meeting. La Crosse, however, won out after Keokuk had accepted a compromise which promised to bring the 1917 convention to that city.

Thomas Wilkinson of Burlington, Iowa, was re-elected president of the association. Other officers elected were:

Secretary, L. Boswell, Quincy. Treasurer, J. P. Eckhart, Guttenburg, Iowa.

Vice presidents—For Minnesota, Byron J. Mosier of Stillwater; for Missouri, B. N. Hanson of St. Louis; for Wisconsin, William Torrance of La Crosse; for Illinois, C. F. Perry of Quincy; for Iowa, John Bell of Burlington.

That the La Crosse Board of Trade had supplemented the invitation to La Crosse voiced by President D. W. MacWillie of the Manufacturers and Jobbers club in his letter to the convention became known today, when Secretary C. S. Van Auker of the board made public a telegram sent to Frank Sisson, the board's delegate, on November 30. The telegram follows:

"Frank Sisson, "Hotel Newcomb, "Quincy, Ill. "The La Crosse Board of Trade extends an invitation to the upper Mississippi River Improvement association to hold their fifteenth annual convention at La Crosse in nineteen sixteen. Kindly urge the delegates to give our invitation due consideration. "LA CROSSE BOARD OF TRADE, "C. S. Heberber, Pres., "C. S. Van Auker, Sec."

EMERGENCY BILL CONFESSION SAYS BOB AT LANCASTER

Admission That Philipp Administration Cannot Handle Finances of State

IS A MEASURE WITHOUT PARALLEL

Makes Appropriations Subject to Unlimited Increase at Will of Three Men

LANCASTER, Wis., Dec. 3.—(Special.)—Senator La Follette in his speech here this afternoon charged that the passage of an emergency appropriation bill was a confession of the Philipp administration that it was unable to cope with the financial situation of the state and handle its affairs in a businesslike way.

Without Parallel
"This law is without a parallel, so far as I am aware," declared the senator. "It makes the appropriations of the Philipp administration, subject to unlimited increase at the will of three men."

Senator La Follette repeated his charge that many of the taxes heretofore paid by the state out of the state taxes had now been shifted to the counties and towns. He declared that the people would still find that there taxes were high, but that the shift had hereby been made from one pocket to another.

Rob General Fund
Senator La Follette laid particular stress on the state highway law, calling attention that the highway state tax heretofore collected direct was now taken from the general fund. As a result he predicted there would be little over a million of dollars in the general fund next July, "whereas the progressive administration left a legacy of $3,000,000 balance on July 1."

"Never in the history of state government has there been such a juggling with state finances in an effort to make it appear that state taxes were lower," declared the senator.

The state dairy and food department was considered in briefer form than in his Monroe speech. He charged that the efficiency of the department had deteriorated under the present administration and concluded by saying:

Business "Helped"
"Apparently business—including that of food adulteration—is to be 'helped' instead of 'hampered.'"

A. H. Kessler, W. C. Livingstone and David Schreiner were in charge of the arrangements here. The speech was given in the opera house.

MONASTIR'S FATE STILL UNDECIDED DESPITE REPORTS

Advices Bulgars and Teutons Have Entered City Unconfirmed at Berlin

POSITION ADMITTEDLY CRITICAL

All Serbs Have Left the City While Greeks and Bulgarians Remain Behind

The fate of Monastir is not known. Dispatches from two sources state that the Macedonian town has fallen. The reports conflict, inasmuch as one says that the Bulgarians have entered the town, while the other has it that Austro-Germans were the first to occupy the city. An official communique issued at Berlin speaks monique issued at Berlin speaks near Mitrovitsa, but fails to confirm the reports that Monastir has been captured.

SALONIKA, Dec. 3.—Austro-German troops entered Monastir on Thursday afternoon, according to dispatches from the Greek town of Florina near the Serbian frontier.

The Bulgarians, operating south-east of Monastir in the region of Kenali, planned to enter Monastir today, the dispatches asserted.

It was stated that only the Austrian flag was hoisted in Monastir.

BERLIN, via Wireless to Sayville, Dec. 3.—"Victorious engagements against isolated Serbian detachments southwest of Mitrovitsa occurred yesterday," said today's official war office report. "We captured 1,300 Serbians."

London in the Dark
LONDON, Dec. 3.—Whether or not Monastir has fallen is undecided. That the Bulgarians have taken it is stated positively in Athens dispatches to the Times and Exchange Telegram company, but official confirmation is lacking.

Salonika reported early today that communication with the town has been severed since 7 a. m. Thursday.

Serbs Leave City
Practically all of the Serb population has already left Monastir. Bulgar and Greek residents, who constitute a large proportion of the total remain, however. The former have been rejoicing at the invaders' approach. The latter undoubtedly can depend on protection of their lives and property.

The Serbs' southern army under General Vassich, which has been making Monastir its base, is believed to have moved to the westward to ward, or perhaps, across the Albanian frontier.

Speedy development of both Russian and Italian Balkan campaign is looked for in official circles. Rumored withdrawals of German and Austrian troops from the upper Vardar valley, where they have been aiding the Bulgars against the French, are believed to be for the purpose of strengthening the Bulgar line on the Rumanian frontier. Confirmation is lacking of Greek reports that Rumania has at last given the Russians right of way across her territory. Lacking such permission, however, it is assumed the czar will order the movement, in an emergency, in any event.

The beginning of Italian operations is looked for in northern Albania, presumably at Avlona, where a landing is reported. In the north, it is pointed out, the Italians will be able to co-operate with the Montenegrins and their march to the Serb frontier will be shorter than from the Avlona region.

BABY CONTENTERS IN THE TRIBUNE'S SHOWER OF GOLD ELECTION

Watch for the pictures of the Tribune's "Shower of Gold" babies each day. Three more little faces will appear tomorrow and each day thereafter for several weeks.

JACK ROONEY
Here's Jack. He's a regular fellow. Junior Rooney is his manager, and as to livelier managers than Junior, there ain't no such thing. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rooney, 217 N. Seventh street, present this young league president, Jack, as the "than whom" and "none such" of his generation, and one is at a loss to imagine a livelier delegate. Mr. Rooney admits he is raising Jack on exactly the same food that he feeds the good people of La Crosse and Winona, and a boy so nourished ought to be able to travel in any company.

JUNE DITTMAN
This is the lady who one day will make Charles A. Dittman swing to women's suffrage, for this precocious daughter of the political leader already is some politician. Charley already is some politician. Charley is adamant with the ward leaders, but his pretty and vivacious girlie simply twists him about her finger. If June has a "boss", it is June's mother, but even that is doubtful. Up at 1007 Vine street they're piling up for June a grand mixture of ballots and Eagles' tail feathers.

ELMER L. STUBBS
Talk about the "milk of human kindness". There's Master Stubbs. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Stubbs live at 920 Division street, and Mr. Stubbs furnishes milk for hundreds of babies in La Crosse. Elmer is a good example of what Stubbs milk will do, for look at him! Isn't he about the healthiest, sturdiest boy you know. And he's just as full of good humor and good sense as he looks. Yes, you'll find the "stubs" of a lot of circulation books in the home of Elmer Stubbs.

TEMPORARILY WITHOUT FUNDS

KENOSHA, Wis., Dec. 3.—Kenosha county awoke on Wednesday to find itself broke for the first time in twenty-five years. The supervisors had ordered the finance committee to make a loan to pay current bills, but it was found that that action of the board had been taken before the tax levy was made, and Clerk Jones hurried to call a special meeting of the board to be held a week from Saturday.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

PEACE IN THE FAMILY

BY KEITH KENYON

(Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Dora hunted up her father and found him in the garden trimming his roses.

"Here's the mail, daddy—two letters for you."

Henry Harper caught the crispness of his daughter's tone as she turned toward the house and a slight shadow crossed his face. He knew without looking that one of the letters was from a woman, a woman he cared for a great deal, and the girl's tone hurt him.

"Dora!"
"Yes, father."
"I'd like to talk to you a minute, dear. Can you come and sit down on this bench a little while or are you too busy?"

Dora loved her father devotedly. There was something in his tone that brought a flood of red to her cheeks. "You dear old goose, of course I'm never too busy to talk to you. There now, what is it?"

Henry looked at his pretty daughter with a glow of pride. In her white dress, she looked like one of the roses in his garden. "I have put off the critical moment so long, dear, but before I open this letter I want to tell you something."

Dora was silent.

"I guess you know the writing pretty well now. It's from a friend in Boston."

The girl stiffened imperceptibly and the color left her face. She had been motherless for so many years and her father had been all the world to her. It was hard to have him think of any one except herself.

"Yes, daddy," she managed to get out.

He went on: "I met her last year when I was away, and, as you know, we have corresponded ever since. She is young, scarcely older than you are, but mature in her ways and wonderfully sweet and clever. I'm sure you would love her, Dora. Won't you try for my sake? I have asked her to be my wife."

"Daddy!" Dora sprang to her feet with a cry of pain. "Oh, daddy! Then she sank limply down to the bench, the tears rolling down her cheeks. 'I can hardly believe it. Her lips trembled so she could scarcely speak."

Her father put his arm around her tenderly. "Don't cry, honey! I'm so sorry I hurt you. I didn't mean to be so abrupt. I'll tell you all about it some time. Besides I haven't read my letter yet. Maybe she has said 'no.' But I thought I ought to tell you what I had done regardless of her answer."

"It's—it's all right, father. But if she is young and pretty I don't see how I can like her. Why didn't you pick some one old like yourself?"

Henry Harper put back his well-shaped head and laughed. "Well, I like that! Do you know I'm only forty-three? But I suppose that must seem ancient to twenty."

"Well, not exactly ancient, daddy, but when I get married I want some one my own age who can play golf and tennis and dance and run an aeroplane, maybe, if he's rich."

"An all-around athlete like yourself! So you think because I like books and a garden and write for magazines I'm old and decrepit?"

"Now, daddy!"

"It sounds pretty much that way, miss. But if you liked books and flowers better than anything else wouldn't you like your husband to like them, too, no matter what his age might be?" anxiously.

"I suppose so," with a sigh. "But, daddy dear, if she's accepted you—and you seem pretty sure of it or you'd have been more anxious about the letter—please don't tell me, I'll know that silence means consent. And maybe some day—I mean I'll try to get used to it." She kissed him and went quickly back to the house to sob her heart out in her room.

The days passed and Henry Harper never returned to the subject they had discussed in the garden. Dora drooped, knowing that her father was to be married and that another woman would soon be pouring coffee at her place at the table.

Her friends, little guessing the trouble, did what they could to cheer her. The boys, with whom Dora was a general favorite, and did their best to divert her, but it was of no use. Golf with Bob had no charm, tennis with Homer seemed dead, motoring with Dick bored her, dancing tired her and the party the girls gave on her birthday caused not a ripple on her melancholy.

Her father was worried. "Dora," he said one morning with finality, "I have a plan. I'm going to send you away. You need a change of scene and air. If you go on this way I don't know what will happen. You've got to go. I've made up my mind!"

"But, daddy, promise you won't stop."

He guessed the appeal in her eyes. "No, dear," softly. "I won't be married while you're gone. I know of a place on the North Shore of Massachusetts, Broxton, where a number of people have cottages. Some friends of your mother live there—two, in fact, a Mr. Cyrus Fielding, bachelor, and his sister, Margaret. They have always wanted us to visit them, but I can't go just now. So I'm going to send you alone. There! That's a good girl. I knew you'd do it. I'll give you a check for some clothes and try to be ready by Saturday."

The Fieldings were at the station with their car when Dora arrived at Broxton Saturday evening. Margaret was clear skinned, dark eyed and quiet mannered, and her tender greeting of the girl won her at once. Cyrus, tall and not too good looking, put Dora instantly at her ease by remarking: "How do you do, Miss Harper? The last time I saw you you were cutting your first teeth. Some one suggested that I investigate, and you bit me. I still have the scar."

Dora laughed. "I have always wondered why my teeth tried to grow crooked. I understand now. They got wrecked in infancy."

"Very likely you are right," agreed Margaret Fielding, looking at her brother fondly. "He's as hard as nails all over. And no wonder—he's never in the house."

"That sounds promising," returned Dora, "if you mean he's fond of sport."

"Try me on anything you like!" boasted Cyrus. "But here we are at home."

The cottage was low, rambling and luxurious with every comfort. Surrounding it was a most wonderful garden. "Oh, if father could only see it!" exclaimed Dora. "He loves flowers so!"

"I wish he could!" answered Margaret. "The garden is mine. I take care of it myself. 'Now, dearie, I want you to feel that this is your home. Do just whatever you wish. I'll see that you meet some charming people, and Cyrus would love to have you along on all of his jaunts, boating or otherwise, if you don't think he's too old."

"You're both darlings," exclaimed Dora enthusiastically. "It's my own fault if I don't have the time of my life. For the time she had forgotten about her father and her trouble."

The days and weeks flew. The roses of health and spirits again bloomed on Dora's cheeks—and something else! For she had fallen in love with Cyrus Fielding and he with her. "But, dear, you are sure you don't think I am too old," he asked her once anxiously. "I'm forty."

"Oh, hush! I won't have you say that," she laughed. "You're just right."

One day Dora came into the library where Margaret was reading. On the table was a bowl of roses that caught her eye. "Why, those are Lady Thord roses! I thought father was the only one in this part of the country who had them!"

"He is!" answered Margaret, putting her arms tenderly around Dora and drawing her close. "He sent them to me. Do you like me any better, dear, than you did?"

"You darling!" exclaimed Dora. "So you are to be my new mother? Oh, I'm so glad! Now I've two things to tell daddy in my letter."

WASHINGTON'S WORDS USED BY RECRUITING AGENTS IN ENGLAND

(United Press Correspondence.)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(By mail.)—

Words used by George Washington to stir American patriotism during the dark days of the American revolution are used in England today to awaken the men who remain at home in the face of England's greatest crisis.

Recruiting posters framed under the new administration of Lord Derby, England's chief recruiting agent, thus quote Washington:

"It is not sufficient for a man to be a passive friend and well wisher to a cause. Every person should be active in some department or other, without paying too much attention to private interest. . . . Our conflict is not likely to cease so soon as every good man would wish. The measure of iniquity is not yet filled; and unless we can return a little more to first principles, and act a little more on patriotic grounds, I do not know when it will or what may be the issue of the contest."

The comment of the Derby administration under this statement of Washington's is:

"The answer was the United States of America."

What people don't know about religion causes the fool arguments.

COLD WEATHER RHEUMATISM

Why should rheumatism, a disease of the blood, be worse in cold weather than in summer?

The rheumatic poison in the blood is the predisposing cause of the disease. If you have the taint in your blood you may have rheumatism whenever the exciting cause stirs it to action. Cold weather and dampness are exciting causes of rheumatism. They excite to action something already in the blood, something that you must get rid of if you would be free from rheumatism.

What this something is, nobody knows. Not very long ago it was thought to be uric acid. Many doctors, however, are of the opinion that it is a specific bacillus, but they cannot find the bacillus.

It is a known fact that in rheumatism the blood becomes thin rapidly, that building up the blood relieves the rheumatism and that there will be no return of the rheumatism as long as the condition of the blood is maintained. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are recommended for rheumatism because they keep the blood rich and red and free from rheumatic poisons.

The free book, "Building Up the Blood," tells all about the treatment. Send for a copy today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist sells Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

Pixley will still be Philipp's aide

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 3.—The resignation of Colonel R. B. Pixley as private secretary to the governor has caused a great deal of surprise among the followers of the political situation. But after considering it fully the majority of them have considered the step a good one for the governor.

The governor will still have Pixley as a personal advisor in all matters. The former secretary will probably spend most of his time in handling publicity matter for the executive. Pixley is probably the best man who could be procured for work of this kind. He ranks among the best newspapermen in Wisconsin; is known all over the state and has many friends among the newspapermen.

Publicity will work wonders in the belief of politicians, in helping to win the fight for delegates to the national republican convention. This will really determine the relative power of Philipp and La Follette and both are going to make a big fight to control the Badger delegation.

Don't expect any man to thank you for trying to induce him to do what he doesn't want to do.

Found Simple Remedy that Relieved Child

Mild Laxative Compound Corrects Stubborn Case of Constipation.

An important duty that devolves on parents is the regulation of their children's bowels. Health in later life depends in large measure on early training and a child should be taught from infancy to regular habits.

When from any cause the bowel becomes congested with stomach waste a mild laxative should be employed to open up the passage gently and carry off the congested mass. A most effective remedy for this purpose is the combination of simple laxative herbs known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. W. D. Bulls, of Reed, Okla., used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for her baby boy, Harley Buren Bulls, and says "It did him more good than anything we have given him. His bowels are very stubborn about acting, but they act easily every time I give him Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains no opiate or narcotic drug and is a splendid remedy for children and older people as well. It has been on the market for more than twenty-five years and is the family standby in thousands of homes. Druggists everywhere sell it for fifty cents a bottle. A trial bottle, free of charge, can be obtained by writing to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 454 Washington St., Monticello, Ill.

THE ISSUE IN THE 1916 CAMPAIGN

Some astute observer has given to the ink a theory that in Wisconsin the 1916 political campaign is
"on," and with due apologies to the almanac we concede the point.

This is an important campaign.
It involves the preservation or remission of the government program worked out in Wisconsin during the past fourteen years. The issue really is the same as that raised in 1914, but it is more clearly defined in that the Philipp administration was a prophecy then whereas now it is history. What then was speculation and prediction is now fact, what was warning then becomes analysis now.

In the present administration we have gone well back into the old railroad regime. The president of a common carrier sits in the executive office, railroad men sit in the railroad commission, the old lieutenants of the special interests administer the departments that dispense rulings affecting the conflicting interests of the people at large and those same special interests, "Business," violating law, is "admonished" where once it was prosecuted.

"Business" has the ear of authority while the plain citizen awaits without the closed door, franchise and discrimination are triumphant. The democracy of education trembles for its academic freedom. All has been achieved under the cover of a "retrenchment" and "economy" movement that has resulted in increased taxation.

The issue turns upon two incompatible interpretations of freedom and the province of government. The old way makes individualism the test of liberty, places the right of the dollar above the right of the person. The new way makes liberty an equality of opportunity and conceives a government that shall intervene between the corporation and the individual, the strong and the weak, to guarantee that quality.

Since "government derives its just powers from the consent of the governed," it is for the majority to decide which interpretation shall be accepted by Wisconsin, which shall be given force and effect in our legislation and administration.

Here, briefly, is the bone of our contention. Governor Philipp and his political associates—with perfect propriety insofar as frankness characterizes their position—stand for the old individualism and state encouragement of corporate enterprise. Senator La Follette and his associates stand for the new liberty, the revived representative government. Between these two the people of Wisconsin must decide.

SOME FIGURES FOR THE SENTINEL

The Sentinel complains that Senator La Follette didn't "give the figures" in his latest address. The Sentinel omits the figures, and then de-precates their absence. It tells about the "small attendance" and how many
"left the meeting" and how many
"girls and minors" were in the audience.

That is the Sentinel's way of campaigning. Not a newspaper man in the state who has not at some time sat in a great and enthusiastic audience in a La Follette meeting and,
next morning, read in the Sentinel those familiar phrases: "light attendance," "cool reception," "women and minors."

Here are some figures from Senator La Follette's speech which failed to interest The Sentinel:

Between February and November
1,320 food samples were submitted to Mr. Weigle's department by the inspectors; of these 490 were found below standard while 409 remained yet to be analyzed, leaving 421 up to standard. But three re-inspections were made on the below-standard cases and but twenty-three prosecutions were conducted. During the year immediately preceding Dr.
Weigle's administration, Mr. Emery conducted 240 prosecutions.

Form letters of "admonition," said the senator, are being substituted for legal enforcement.

There are "figures" for you.
Twenty-three prosecutions as against 240. Which, think you, is the more apt to protect the people against adulterated foods and poisonous pre-servatives?

PATRIOTISM AND POWDER

Recently as a basis for analysis of the "Navy League," we furnished a list of its prominent members together with business connections showing their interest in war orders and war loans. This, of course, bears upon the patriotism and disinterestedness of the "League's" advocacy of "national preparedness." Herewith we quote Senator La Fol-lette's enumeration and characterization of the "Navy League's" membership:

J. Pierpont Morgan; Thomas W.
Lamont (Morgan); William H. Porter (Morgan); Henry P. Davison

A Plan Without a Purpose
If death be final, what is life, with all
Its lavish promise, its thwarted aims,
Its lost ideals, its dishonored
claims,
Its incompleted growth? A prison
wall,
Whose heartless stones but echo back
our call,
An epitaph recording but our names;
A puppet-stage, where joys and griefs and shames
Furnish a demon-jester's carnival;
A plan without a purpose of a form;
A roofless temple; an unfinished tale,
And men like madrepores through calm and storm
Toil and die to build a branch of fossil frail,
And add from all their dreams,
thoughts, acts, belief,
A few more inches to a coral-reef.
—Christopher Pierce Cranch in Exchange.

The Miser's Ruse
Old Josh Lee was a miser, and he breakfasted every morning on oatmeal. To save fuel, he cooked his week's supply of oatmeal on Sundays. This supply, by the time Saturday night came round was pretty stiff and tough and hard to down.
One Saturday morning old Josh found his oatmeal particularly un-appetizing. It had a crust on it like iron. He took a mouthful of the cold, stiff mixture—then he half rose, thinking he'd have to cook himself some eggs.
But he hated to give in. He hated to waste the oatmeal. So he took out the whiskey bottle, poured a generous glass and setting it before his plate, he said:
"Now, Josh, if you eat that oatmeal you'll get that whiskey; and if you don't, you won't."
The oatmeal was hard to consume, but Josh, with his eye on the whiskey, managed it. Then when the last spoonful was gone, he grinned broadly, poured the whiskey back into the bottle again and said:
"John, my son, I fooled you that time, you old idiot."

Needed a Chart
"Um, yes! Ah!" remarked the medico in his best bedside manner to his patient as they stood in the consulting room. "I'll give you the following prescription," and he handed him three small packages. The patient opened them and read the direction. "A powder for my headache," he said aloud; "a pellet for European war orders!"; Percy Rockefeller (sufficiently identified).

Always it should be borne in mind that the "Navy League" is not a navy bureau, but a voluntary organization of citizens having certain ends to serve, acting without government authority.

CLEVER WOMEN

Use gasoline to dry clean everything at home and save $5 in an hour.

You will never again pay enormous prices for dry cleaning after trying this. Any woman can clean and renew the appearance of yokes, ribbons, satins, laces, silks, furs, shirt-waists, Swiss, lawn, organdie and chiffon dresses, kid gloves and shoes, neckties, children's clothes, suits,
caps, woolen garments, fancy vests,
draperies, rugs, in fact, any and everything that would be ruined with soap and water.

Get two ounces of solvite at any drug store and put it in two gallons of gasoline, where it quickly dissolves. Then put in the goods to be cleaned. After a little rubbing out they come looking bright and fresh as
new. You will find nothing fades, shrinks or wrinkles, requiring no pressing.
You would have to pay $5 at a dry cleaning establishment for the cleaning which can be done at home as easily as laundering. Any grocer or garage will supply the gasoline and your druggist will sell you two ounces of solvite which is simply a gasoline soap, then a large dishpan or wash boiler completes your dry cleaning outfit. As gasoline is very inflammable, be sure to do your dry cleaning out of doors, or in a room away from fire or flame, with the windows left open.

Her Preference
A Boston man recently returned from London tells of standing in a raw March wind alongside of two English girls as a regime of Highlanders marched past. "If I were a man," he heard one of the girls say,
"I'd be a soldier."
"So would I," replied the other,
but I'd join a regiment that wore trousers in the winter."—Boston

Not a Bad Answer
"Now, Tommy, of course you know about Achilles."

"Yes'm His mother dipped him in the Styx."
"That's it. So that he was vulnerable in one heel only. Still, in that exact spot, the missile struck him.
Now what does this story illustrate?"
"Lack of efficiency," ventured Tommy.—Courier Journal.

From Our Eden Correspondent
The serpent congratulated Eve on having partaken of the fruit of the tree of knowledge, thereby becoming the first sweet girl graduate.

"Your commencement gown," said he, "is a peach—not a fig. The Blue Stockings mightn't like all your figures of speech, but what do you know about an attractive figure?
By the by, did you compose the class poem?"
"No," replied Eve, glancing in Adam's direction, "I chose the Commencement Him."—Judge.

She Would Answer
A certain judge, somewhat famed for the prolixity and subtlety of his reasoning, looked at a confused and bewildered witness, while his face took on the most benign expression as he endeavored to straighten out the question which had been propounded by counsel.

"Now, my good woman," he said, cheerfully and reassuringly, "you have only to answer in the fewest possible words these simple queries:
Whether when you were crossing the street with the baby on your arm, and the stage was coming down on the right, and the cab on the left,
and the brougham was trying to pass the stage, you saw the plaintiff between the brougham and the cab, whether he seemed in haste, and which one of the three cabs coming from the other direction he appeared to you to be heading."
The now thoroughly bewildered witness wiped her spectacles and neekly made answer:
"Yes, your honor!"—Chicago

MADAME THE JUDGE GRANTS A DIVORCE

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Dec.
3.—Introducing Frances Mc-Gaughey Martin, lawyerette, and one of the first women who ever held a judgeship higher than a justice court bench!

When California passed a law permitting parties to a divorce suit to pick their own judge, they gave Barrister Martin her place. She has proved herself a capable judge.

"Clear case of desertion," she commented on her first hearing. "Divorce granted!"
—and that without a lot of fuss and feathers, either.
She often says:
"I am glad to be able to show men that women can really do things. That's all there is to it."

EVERY TOMMY TO RECEIVE PRESENT FROM THE QUEEN

(United Press Correspondence.)
LONDON, Oct. 22.—(By mail.)—The armies of northern France are preparing for another winter campaign. Relief societies in England are taking extraordinary precautions to see that the trench dwellers do not endure hardships such as they suffered last year.
Within two months, every mile of British and Belgian trench will have been equipped with square, boxlike charcoal and coke trench heaters, specially made and costing $500 per trench mile. It is estimated that $500 contributed will warm 3,000 men. About 4,000 of these heaters already have been shipped to the Belgian trenches.

Trench pumps will dry out flooded trenches. Trench kitchens and trench cooking supplies also will be in evidence. The frozen feet, rheumatism, ague and fevers that sent thousands of men from the trenches to hospitals a year ago will thus be avoided. Every fourth woman in Britain belongs to some relief society, most of whose members are knitting stockings, mufflers and heavy garments for the Tommies and their Belgian and French allies.

Several societies and newspapers have started a Christmas pudding campaign for the soldiers. One newspaper got $10,000 the first two weeks. No Tommy shall miss his Christmas pudding, the campaigners declare. Officers' wives whose husbands are serving in the Dardanelles have a society for sending Christmas cheer to the men there.

Queen Mary will provide every soldier and sailor with a Christmas gift. This honor last year fell to Princess Mary, who distributed over a million handsomely decorated metal boxes filled with food and useful articles. The increased land and sea forces will make Queen Mary's a more difficult and expensive task.

Although a married woman may have everything that money can buy, she will not be happy unless she is permitted to have her own way.

SCHOOL HEALTH CLOSELY WATCHED IN THIS STATE

La Crosse One of the Many Cities in State Who Have Some System of Inspecting Pupils

TOOTHBRUSH WITH TEXTBOOK
In Kenosha They Would Make Dental Drill Part of the School Curriculum

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 3.—The movement for health supervision of school children is being extended rapidly in Wisconsin. Its first air is medical attention for pupils and the discovery and elimination of physical defects. It also contemplates visiting nurses to follow up these cases in the home and see that the necessary treatment is given the child. Dental inspection and the teaching of hygiene are included in the general plan. Numerous states have a law for the thorough examination of all school children in the state. Wisconsin has not gone this far, but municipalities have taken such action of their own accord.

These Have Systems
Milwaukee hires twelve physicians and five school nurses to supervise the health of her children in school. Wausau has four physicians and two nurses. The following cities, according to recent reports to State Superintendent C. P. Cary, employ one physician each: Ashland, Beloit, Fond du Lac, Grand Rapids, La Crosse, Madison, Manitowoc, Superior, Two Rivers, West Allis. The following one nurse each: Antigo, Burlington, Chippewa Falls, De Pere, Green Bay, Janesville, Kaukauna, Madison, Manitowoc, Marinette, Menomonie, Neenah, Oshkosh, Racine, Rice Lake, Stoughton, Two Rivers, Waukesha, West Allis. The list is undoubtedly incomplete.

In Marinette the local medical society has offered to give free service for the detection of malformations and imperfections in school children. Hygiene is becoming one of the principal courses in continuation schools in the state. Emphasis is laid on daily care of the teeth, frequent bathing, keeping finger nails in good condition, sleeping with windows wide open, plenty of exercise, drinking plenty of fresh water, eating of proper food, and dangers of over-eating.

Tooth Brush Drill
Racine is discussing the establishing of a public school dental clinic. Many parents cannot afford dental treatment for their children. Kenosha therefore wants toothbrushes added to the textbooks and toothbrush drill to the curriculum. In Chippewa Falls school health leagues have been established throughout the city to arouse class spirit for cleanliness, personal neatness and health. Prizes are given for essays on cleanliness and allied topics. At Janesville the Anti-Tuberculosis society is starting a movement for health supervision and dental inspection for children. Appleton, Stevens Point and other cities are agitating the appointment of a school nurse.

FAVORS UNITED STATES OF WORLD

(United Press Correspondence.)
LONDON, Dec. 3.—(By mail.)—A "United States of the World" is the idea of Professor Sidney Webb, well known British political economist, to end wars. The diminution of war in the world is due to the diminution of the number of states in the world, he argues, pointing out that time has steadily cut down the number of these and consequently there has been less fighting.

In the eighteenth century there were hundreds of separate states in Europe and always war among some of them. He adds:
"Today the total number of governments of the world that can make war is forty-six, twenty-one of which are on the continent of America. If you can imagine such a condition as the whole world under one government, the United States of the World, with any amount of local autonomy, you will find war brought to an end. There might be riots necessitating police interference, but there would be no more war."

Professor Webb figures that war is controlled by the eight great powers—Britain, Germany, France, Austria-Hungary, Russia, Italy, United States and Japan. These powers compose three-quarters of the world's population and dispose of seven-eighths of its armed force, he says.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The resignations of the Austrian ministers of finance, commerce and interior following upon the kaiser's visit to Vienna, point almost conclusively to internal differences having made necessary the meeting of the two emperors.

The minister of finance is the manager of the monetary situation in Austria; the minister of commerce is charged with the direction of the country's economic condition; and the minister of the interior is the chief official responsible for the control of war prices, the regulation of food supplies and the suppression of disorders. These are the subjects concerning which disquieting rumors are constantly coming from Vienna.

It is altogether probable therefore that the domestic situation in Austria is very threatening. Not otherwise would the kaiser have interfered—as it seems he has done—with the ministerial incompetence of his southern ally. The new appointees to the three Austrian cabinet positions have probably been selected by the German government, or at very least, they will be amenable to the direction from Berlin.

The Germans long ago took from Vienna the supreme direction of the war and Austro-Hungarian victories began to date from that time. It now appears as if the Germans were also to assume responsibility for the internal government of the dual monarchy. Probably the economic, financial and food problems of the central powers will be handled hereafter together, or in closest intimacy with German views prevailing on all important points.

This effort to support Austro-Hungary must of necessity be made by the stronger power, if Germany is not to be seriously handicapped by the growing weakness of her southern confederate. It is probable that only Hapsburg pride has prevented the adoption of the plan before now. The result will give new life to the Austrians for a time, but only in limited measure.

The Germans can spare nothing of what they themselves possess. They can prevent waste in Austria through better organization and they can make a fair distribution of the new supplies now arriving from Turkey and the Balkans. But, more than this, they cannot do.

GOVERNOR IN FILMS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 3.—"The power of the penny," the movie picture in which Governor E. L. Philipp and other prominent state officials make their debut as actors, was presented here for the first time yesterday. The scenario was written by Mrs. Louis F. Brand of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, and deals with the work of that organization. One of the unique scenes shows the supervisors of Marathon county voting an appropriation of $100,000 to build a tuberculosis sanatorium.

TELL PEA PACKERS PROPER DEFENSE AGAINST BLIGHT

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Dec. 3.—Ways of controlling pea blight which disease has seriously threatened the pea packing industry of this state, were described by R. E. Vaughan of the University of Wisconsin at the meeting of the Wisconsin Pea Packers association held here yesterday. For several years the agricultural experiment station has been co-operating with the pea growers of the state in an effort to find ways of controlling this disease. As a result of these experiments and observa-

ALLOWED TO PLEAD GETS TWENTY YEARS

RACINE, Wis., Dec. 3.—The murder trial of Mrs. Mary Kosala and her lover, George Zabajnak, charged with having poisoned the woman's husband, Simon Kosala, on May fourth came to an abrupt close on Thursday, when, by stipulation Zabajnak was allowed to plead guilty to murder in the second degree and was sentenced to twenty years in state prison. The woman, who pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the fourth degree, was given a prison term of two years, but sentence was suspended and she was placed on parole on account of her infant child.

GALLIENI A MAN OF SIMPLICITY AND OF GREAT ABILITY

Minister of War Became an Executive and a General in Colony of Madagascar

BY HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
PARIS, Nov. 3.—(By Mail.)—Energetic simplicity is the dominating characteristic of General Gallieni, France's new minister of war; and he gave a good example of it on September 3rd, 1914, when he found himself suddenly entrusted with the defense of Paris upon that crucial day.

The government had fled to Bordeaux before the onrush of the Teutonic hordes. Gallieni must defend the city. He felt that his first duty was to tell the Parisians of the situation before them. He summoned a famous historian on his staff to prepare the proclamation. What the historian wrote, had it ever been published, probably would have gone down as a notable literary contribution to the war.

Gallieni glanced at the long, high sounding phrases, thanked the historian, handed him his page and picking up a pen, wrote:

"To the inhabitants and The Army of Paris: The members of the government of the Republic have left Paris to give a new impulse to the national defense. I have received the order to defend Paris against the invader. That order I will carry out to the very end—Gallieni." That phrase, "to the very end"—"jusqu'au bout," put heart into the Parisians. It is the most famous phrase the war has given France.

Commandeered Taxicabs
A short time later Gallieni commandeered all the taxicabs in Paris and rushed 20,000 troops in them to the Marne, right at the time and place to change impending defeat into victory.

Gallieni is a product of the French colonies. Much has been said against the French colonial policy, but these colonies have produced some of the most brilliant French generals of the present war. In addition to Gallieni there is Joffre, Roques and Gouraud.

Learned in Madagascar
In Madagascar the simple Gallieni developed his military, organizing and administrative ability. "Leave with each person the impression that he has created that which he has executed," was the foundation principle of his success there. He is unlike the modern general who makes himself feared, in that he makes himself loved.

As Minister of War, Gallieni has an advantage in his profound knowledge of Germany. Years ago he saw the German world movement and equipped himself to cope with the present situation, which he in part foresaw.

Gallieni also has both literary ambition and ability. At St. Cyr he frequented only the literary cafes, particularly the haunts of Alphonse Daudet. He once told Gabrielle D'Annunzio that had he not been a soldier he would have been a man of letters. Really, he is both. Among his writings are: "Two Campaigns in the French Soudan," "The Columns at Tonkin," "The Pacification of Madagascar" and "Nine Years in Madagascar."

Gallieni believes in France and the French; a belief based on the study of his and other people. He sees but one grave defect in his countrymen, which he thus characterizes: "Everytime something does not go right, it is not because the French are not intelligent, but because they do not know how to do it and often do not want to make use of their intelligence."

Gallieni has said that as minister of war he will seek to lead the French to make use of their intelligence.

TAKE MOVIE OF ACCIDENT

COLBY, Wis., Dec. 3.—The accident in which four prominent business men of Marshfield lost their lives when their automobile was wrecked by a Soo Line train, was re-enacted before a moving picture machine here recently. The camera men snapped a picture of the automobile racing with the train and every other detail possible up to the actual striking of the auto by the engine. The pictures will not be shown in a theater. In fact there was the greatest secrecy about the whole thing. The company wanted the pictures to show in court if a suit is instituted for damages. So far no action has been started.

WANDERING WINDOW AGAIN ON ITS WAY

(United Press Correspondence.)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—(By mail.)—Pried from its fastenings for the first time since 1758, the wandering east window of St. Margaret's, the little church fronting Westminster Abbey, has wandered to quarters safer from Zeppelins. The window was originally presented by burgesses of Dordrecht to Henry VII for his chapel in Westminster Abbey. It contains the portraits of the king and queen, their eldest son, Prince Arthur and the prince's bride, Henry VII banished it to Waltham Abbey, away from London, because it suggested unpleasant memories. After the Dissolution, it passed to the Earl of Sussex, father of the unfortunate wife of Henry VIII, Anne Boleyn. It was later possessed and preserved in turn by the Duke of Buckingham, General Monk and Squire Conyers, the latter selling it to the committee of parliament who repaired St. Margaret's in 1758. It remained for the Zeppelins to drag it from its resting place of 157 years.

SENTENCING OF CONSPIRATORS IS DELAYED A DAY

Four Hamburg-American Officials Are Found Guilty of Violation of U. S. Laws

NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Judge Howe today postponed until tomorrow at 10 a. m. the sentencing of the four Hamburg-American officials convicted last night of conspiracy against the United States laws. A motion for a new trial will be entertained at the same time.

The postponement was at the request of the defense. The government agreed.

The defendants, who were all in court, were permitted to remain at liberty on the bonds of $5,000 they had furnished after their indictment.

William Rand, Jr., counsel for the defense, asked the postponement in order that pleas for setting aside the jury's verdict and for arrest of judgment could be carefully drawn.

Roger Wood, assistant United States district attorney, who has prosecuted the case, declined to comment on the probable effect of the conviction on Captain Boy-Ed's relations with the American government.

To Carry on Fight
The highest federal courts will be asked to justify the activities of the steamship line officials. The convicted men plan to carry their fight against the verdict of a jury returned last night, first to the United States court of appeals and then, if necessary, to the supreme court of the United States.

As the first step in fighting to the end on the contention that they conspired only against Germany's enemies and not against the United States, attorneys for the convicted officials will ask for a dismissal of the jury's verdict when they appear in court tomorrow.

Judge Howe could impose four years in prison and $20,000 fine on each of the individual defendants and $20,000 fine on the Hamburg-American line under provisions of the indictments' two counts.

It was thought likely, however, that he would sentence on only one of the counts, thus cutting the penalty in half. The fine or prison sentence, or both, were optional with the court.

The verdict of conviction was reached on the first ballot, after the jury had deliberated seven hours over the evidence and law of the case.

MATHIAS BECKER FORMER RESIDENT GOES TO REWARD

Mathias Becker, formerly a well-known resident of La Crosse, died yesterday morning at his home at Portland, Monroe county, after several months' illness with sarcoma. Mr. Becker was 77 years old, having been born in Strassen, Luxemburg, in 1838. For many years he operated a limekiln on St. Joseph's Ridge, close to La Crosse.

Mr. Becker came to the United States in 1856. In 1868 he married Miss Anna Dorer at La Crosse. Mrs. Becker, four sons and five daughters survive. They include Henry, Louis and Oscar Becker, who reside in Portland, Mathias J. Becker of Marshfield, and Miss Susan Becker of Portland. Mrs. A. A. Fessler, of La Crosse, Mrs. William Christmann, Portland, Ore., and Mrs. Joseph Christmann, Tomah.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 8 o'clock in the morning from the house and at 9 o'clock from St. Peter's church. Father Surges will officiate. Burial will be in the Middle Ridge cemetery.

"Papa, dear, you remember you said you had hunted tigers in West Africa. Well, Captain Defoe tells me there are none there." "Quite right, my dear, quite right! I killed them all."

"HYPHEN ALL ROT" SAYS DR. HEXAMER

land in the present war, as well as an outline of a desirable future course.

"We have been lamentably weak in our attitude toward England," Dr. Hexamer said. "We should simply have sent word to England—very quietly, without publicity perhaps—that unless our rights on the sea were respected we would institute an embargo on arms, munitions and food. We should have won our point quickly."

British Alliance Planned?

That it is only the activity of the German-Americans that has kept the United States from an alliance with Great Britain was a startling statement made by Dr. Hexamer.

"The Roosevelt and the Morgans, and all the eastern press were strongly in favor of it. I believe they would have forced the government at Washington into such a disgraceful policy if we had not strongly opposed it," the leader of the "hyphenates" declared.

The German-American alliance is the largest peace society in the world, Dr. Hexamer said. They are working, he said, for an embargo on arms.

"I will admit that there is no legal objection to our present policy," Dr. Hexamer said. "But on broad grounds of humanism we feel there should be an embargo on arms. It is not a pretty position for the United States to occupy—that of prolonging the war. We have no interest in victory for either side."

"Every nation should prepare within itself. Wars would be shorter and less frequent if every country had to stand on its own bottom when trouble comes. An international embargo on arms by all nations would do more for universal peace than all the peace societies in the world."

Opposes "Preparedness" Propaganda
Dr. Hexamer has little sympathy with the exaggerated "preparedness" propagandists.

"It's largely hysteria induced by the moneyed men interested in the manufacture of munitions," declared the Philadelphian. "Our coasts should be better protected, and we should have soldiers to man the fort-tifications—but any European system of militarism here is unnecessary. The two oceans on either side of us make it impossible to land any formidable army on our shores. The most powerful military nation the world has ever seen has been unable to cross the English channel, which is only twenty-two miles wide at its narrowest point."

"The militia should be increased. It is the duty of every young American to join the militia, and we should accustom ourselves to greater personal sacrifices for our country. We should be patriotic, not only in spread-eagle speeches on the Fourth of July, but also practically every day."

Dr. Hexamer dismissed with a smile and a wave of his hand a question concerning possible connection of German-Americans with explosions and fires in munitions factories.

"All rot," he said. "Absolutely nothing to it."

Dr. Hexamer will speak this evening at Germania hall in one of a series of addresses he is delivering in Wisconsin. He has spoken to large gatherings in Milwaukee, Appleton, Oshkosh, Watertown and Madison. Saturday he speaks in Wausau, closing his tour of the state.

MUSICIANS' UNION ESCORTS BODY TO GRAVE WITH DIRGE

Tailor-Musician Who Died in Little Shop Tuesday Morning Is Buried Yesterday

The Musicians' union, playing a funeral dirge, preceded the hearse which yesterday afternoon bore to Oak Grove cemetery the body of John Liska, tailor-musician, who died in his little shop at 1915 Mississippi street Tuesday morning.

Funeral services were held by Rev. John Klaus of the First German Methodist church from the undertaking parlors of A. A. Fessler, 109 South Third street, at 2:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. An orchestra picked from the members of the Musicians' union played during the drive to the cemetery, and also at the grave.

Frank Liska, his only brother, came from Watertown, S. D., to attend Liska's funeral. The body was laid in the family lot in Oak Grove cemetery beside the bodies of Liska's parents.

DANDRUFF GOES! HAIR GETS THICK, WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Save your hair! Double its beauty in a few moments. Try this!

Hair stops coming out and every particle of dandruff disappears.

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most, will be after a few weeks' use when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of softness, an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

MODERN MAGIC IS DONE BY CURRENT

All of the Comforts of Home Are Available Now at Touch of Finger

USEFUL AS A HOUSEHOLD SERVANT

Development Rapid Since the Electric Flat Iron Proved Its Worth

All the comforts of home, without a fire—lights, heat and power at the touch of a finger—this is what the last decade has brought forth. Electricity, the 24-hour servant of modern times, has made it possible. Magic, it would have seemed to our forefathers of a hundred years ago. Today 65 per cent of the population of this country uses this silent agent in some form or another every day of their lives. Electricity is the most convenient thing in the world, and it is fast becoming the most convenient.

"Do it Electrically!"

Where a few years ago each new achievement in the field of electricity was hailed as marvelous, the world is beginning to believe that nothing is impossible with this wonderful, and somewhat mysterious force. When difficult tasks present themselves, it is now customary to say, "Do it Electrically," and indeed, this is now the slogan of the world of commerce and industry.

At first it was a difficult matter to introduce electricity to the housewife, but after the electric flatiron had proved its efficiency, convenience and economy, the introduction of other appliances became simple. So now we have the electric washing machine, the electric dishwasher, the electrically driven sewing machine, the electric range, to say nothing of electric grills, chafing dishes, curling irons, bedwarmers, toasters and scores of other household articles. Electricity furnishes starting power for automobiles, gives light in abundance, lights the cigar of the owner or his guests, and even warms his hands during the winter by means of electric "hand-warmers" on the steering wheel.

Steam driven factories are rapidly becoming a thing of the past. The order of the day is electricity. This almost magic power is doing better work, and doing it cheaper, than any other power in use today. It is almost impossible to enumerate the tasks that are being done electrically.

Jovians Celebrate

And so we have Electrical Prosperity Week, in which all may have the opportunity to discover for themselves how their particular work can be done electrically. The electricians of the city are holding open house, ready, willing and anxious to demonstrate the wonders of electricity.

Everybody in the city is cordially invited to the various stores where electrical appliances are on display. The time spent will pay dividends in pleasure as well as profit. Don't be afraid to ask questions—the electrical fraternity expect it. Don't say, "It can't be done electrically," for while you are forming the words, some bright electrician is doing it.

JUDGE RAYMOND HANDS DOWN BIG OIL LAND RULING

Former La Crosse Jurist Decides Important Case in Wyoming Oil Land Cases

From N. C. Bachelor, now at Billings, Montana, the TRIBUNE has received a letter describing an important case affecting oil land rights, tried before Judge E. C. Raymond, formerly of this city. The story of the trial follows:

What is declared to be one of the most important and far reaching decisions so far rendered in connection

Constipation

Biliousness-Headache

Dr. Chase's Liver Tablets

Make the liver active, bowels regular, without pain or straining, relieve all headaches and that tired feeling

after eating, purify the blood and clear the complexion.

Large box, enough to last a month, 25c.

Dr. Chase Co., 224 N. 10th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

with cases growing out of oil development in Wyoming and Montana was handed down last week by Judge E. C. Raymond of the district court at Worland. The decision came at the close of a three day hearing of a controversy between two claimants to the rights to certain oil lands in the Elk basin, in the northern part of Park county near the Montana-Wyoming line.

The specific matter before the court was a motion to dissolve a restraining order issued November 8 by D. A. Tinkson, court commissioner, preventing the defendants, H. F. Ketchum and others, from entering on the land involved. C. L. Woods and others were the plaintiffs. The motion was over-ruled and the restraining order sustained. The defendants were commanded to refrain from entering on the land for any purpose except that specified in the order of the court.

The case attracted widespread interest, due to the importance of the point involved, which had to do with the rights of locators of mineral land against the rights of discoverers. The defendants showed by testimony that they had located and filed on the land January 1 of this year. Further evidence, however, brought forth the fact that but little if any work had been done by them on the land prior to the time discovery was made by the plaintiffs. Testimony introduced by the plaintiffs was to the effect that when they entered on the land in question several months later than the date on which the defendants claimed they had located and properly marked the land with stakes, there was nothing of any nature on the land to indicate such filing or location.

While it is not generally believed that the decision means that an original locator has no rights as compared to those of the person who makes the discovery, it is thought the decision tends to establish diligence to make discovery after filing. It is said opinions of attorneys differ on this point.

Thirty-seven witnesses, of which 20 were examined, were sworn at the trial.

PREACHERS VISIT CONVICTS

RACINE, Wis., Dec. 3.—Seventy-five convicts, all honor men, working on the new home for the feeble-minded near Union Grove, are being addressed each Sunday by a neighboring minister or priest. No other visitor is allowed near the camp. The men themselves drive over and get the preacher.

Why does a young man try to keep on the right side of his best girl when he knows her heart is on the left side?

LUTHERAN PASTORS
CLOSE MEETINGS

Ministers Decide to Organize and Another Meeting Will Probably Be Held Here
Next Fall

The conference of the United and Synod Lutheran pastors which has been in session here for three days, was closed last night with a public meeting in Our Savior's Norwegian Lutheran church, Sixth and Division streets. A number of people attended the final meeting, when Rev. O. Sovde of Coon Valley introduced a discussion, "Be Ye Doers of the Word of God, and Not Hearers Only." He took his text from James 1-22.

After Mr. Sovde's address, a number of pastors took up the discussion in an informal manner. Those who spoke on the subject included the following pastors: A. Forness of Winona, E. O. Vik of the Charles Street Lutheran church, A. O. Johnson of Spring Grove, Minn., H. Halvorsen of Westby, and Rev. Kristian Magelssen of La Crosse, retired.

The morning and afternoon meetings yesterday were held in the West Avenue United Lutheran church, where, at the forenoon session, Rev. O. C. Myhre of the West Avenue church, read a paper on "Predestination." Rev. H. Halvorsen of Westby and Rev. A. H. Eikjarud of Cashton discussed the paper briefly and expressed themselves as highly pleased with the contents of Rev. Myhre's paper.

The audience at the afternoon session listened to a paper read by Bishop H. Nordby of La Crosse, in which the necessity of uniformity of practice, by Lutherans in sermons, and their stand toward the questions of marriage and divorce, and others of similar nature, was shown.

The pastors decided to organize and have a similar meeting next fall. The meeting will probably be held in this city.

Rev. O. Otterson of West Salem rendered a vocal selection taken from the Messiah, at the final meeting last night. He was accompanied on the pipe organ by Miss Edna Hulberg.

BANDITS ESCAPE
SWAMP AND FOIL
WOULD-BE CAPTORS

Assailants of Deputies Leave
Under Cover of Darkness After Two Days' Hiding

RHINELANDER, Wis., Dec. 3.—The three bandits, who shot two deputy sheriffs here Wednesday made their escape from the marsh in which they had been hiding for two days. Company L dispatched in search for them, returned to this city at noon today.

The fugitives made their escape about three o'clock this morning. One of the deputy sheriffs saw the three figures moving through the woods towards the Soo railroad which passes the edge of the marsh. He shot several times and the men fled to the railroad track, where they boarded a freight train which was passing. The train was forced to slow down while going up a hill so that the men had no trouble in getting aboard.

The deputy was afraid to follow the bandits alone and by the time he had summoned aid, the train was gone. The men's rifles were found by the side of the track where they had thrown them.

Sheriff Crofoot and a party of deputies followed the track while Company L and the citizens' posse, which had been on the search for two days, returned to this city to rest. About five miles to the north of the marsh, the sheriff's party found where one of the bandits left the train. It is believed that they have separated and entered the thick woods which line both side of the track.

The sheriff is still in the woods, but it is extremely doubtful if he will be able to find the fugitives. It is believed the bandits will eventually return to Gagen, where there is a settlement of Kentucky mountaineers who settled there several years ago and who have been making a great deal of trouble for the authorities since.

Gaunt, British embassy naval attache, to two $100 checks, drawn on the Riggs National bank, Washington. Another secret indictment charged Ritter with carrying concealed weapons. In addition, the jury openly indicted Ritter on a charge of giving a worthless $50 check to Miss M. Claire Darby.

Funeral services will be held from the residence at 8:20 o'clock Monday morning and at 9 o'clock from St. Wenceslaus church. Rev. NERVOUS BREAKDOWN

Stanford, Conn., Nurse Tells How She Found Health.

Stanford, Conn.—"I am a nurse and suffered from a nervous breakdown. I had no appetite and could not sleep at night, and nothing seemed to help me. By chance I heard of Vinol, and after taking the first bottle I noticed an improvement, and four bottles made me well and strong. It gave me a hearty appetite, so I can sleep soundly night or day. I consider Vinol a wonderful tonic." Edith R. Forbes, Stanford, Conn.

The reason Vinol is so successful in overcoming such conditions is because it is a constitutional remedy and goes to the seat of the trouble. It is the greatest strength creator we know—due to the extractive medicinal elements of fresh cod livers without oil, combined with peptone of iron and beef peptone, all dissolved in a pure medicinal wine.

We have seen so many wonderful recoveries like this right here in La Crosse caused by Vinol, that we feel perfectly safe in offering to return money in every such case where Vinol fails to benefit. Hoeschler Bros., druggists, La Crosse, Wisconsin.

ROANOKE, Va., Dec. 3.—Mrs. Norman Galt has invited her two old colored "aunties" to help her dress for the wedding.

THE SAVINGS OF POLLY

Since the growth in popularity of the different newspaper characters and the serial idea of having characters appear in picture or story form in newspapers from day to day, a certain advertiser has seen the value of tying up his advertising with a character or serial figure. This manufacturer—Wm. J. Moxley—the friend of economical housewives who are seeking pure foods at low cost, has placed in the best papers in certain cities a character known as "Polly", a pretty and level-headed young lady who day by day in Moxley advertisements shows the housewife how she has saved money and provided her family and guests with pure and delicious foods at the same time.

This series is known as the "Savings of Polly" and readers of this paper will doubtless be interested in the novelty of keeping in touch with the savings of this sensible and ingenious young woman.

Rushford Instructor Tells Parents Harm Done by Cigarette to Growing Boys

RUSHFORD, Minn., Dec. 3.—(Special).—Those who attended the program given at the Presbyterian church in this city recently, will have cause to long remember the talk given by Prof. Reinartson, of our city schools concerning the cigarette. A number of stereoscopic views, thrown upon the screen by Mr. Sandhammer (also of the city schools) served to emphasize the earnest words of the speaker. Examples were given and instances cited where boys of the Rushford high school football squad were severely handicapped by the use of cigarettes and mention made of the interior work done in classes by those addicted to the habit. A growing disinclination to work, extreme nervousness and irritability were almost a certain sign that the person so afflicted was a slave of "the coffin nail". Both boys and girls of the city schools came in for a share of criticism because of the lack of home work done, outside of school tasks. Parents were shown that it was much their fault if the girl knew nothing of sewing, cooking and the many other useful occupations of home-life. If the boys were compelled to do a certain amount of manual labor at home there would not be so great a need of gymnasium work. At the close of the program (which also included songs, instrumental and vocal solos and recitations) the audience partook of a luncheon served in the basement of the church by the W. C. T. U. ladies.

New Books
Several volumes of new reading matter recently purchased by the local W. C. T. U. are now at the library, while the remaining books on the list, purchased with funds from the September "Library Supper" will be sent for when needed. Those who have thought that an extra night for the library opening was not needed will have their doubts quickly dispelled if they will come in Tuesday evenings. A swarm of bees is not "in it" with the gathering of the young folks who come to find the volumes necessary for their English class and the older people are not far behind when it comes to "browsing". Forty-five swarmed about the table of the librarian last Tuesday evening, all at one time.

Sale and Supper
The Guild of Emmanuel church held their annual sale of Christmas articles and fancy work and served a delicious chicken-pie supper at the Parish house, last Wednesday, Dec. 1st. Many beautiful and useful gifts for the holidays were on display and sold readily at good prices. The supper was also enjoyed by a good crowd.

Former Resident Dies
Word was received in this city last Monday, of the death at La Crosse of a former Rushford resident, Marcus Berg. Mr. Berg had for many years made his home in this city, having charge of the city dray line. His death was due to cancer. He is survived by a widow and four sons, besides a large circle of friends and acquaintances. Burial services were held at La Crosse and interment was also made there.

Personals
Mrs. A. C. Pierce returned from a visit to a sister in Dubuque, Iowa, last week and after a brief visit with relatives in this city, departed to spend the winter months at Reeder, N. D., where her two daughters, Mesdames Charles Leff and John Marksgaard, reside.
Among those teachers who came home to set the festive turkey on Thanksgiving day were the Misses Lillian Welper (Gus) New Albin, Iowa; Thea Anderson, instructor in a district near Spring Grove; Blanche Rowlee, who teaches at Red Wing; and Bessie Stage of Winnebago.

DON'T WANT CONVICT LABOR

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 3.—Few counties are going to take advantage of the offer of the state board of control of the use of convict labor in building roads.
Reports coming in from meetings of county boards indicate that the supervisors believe if they employed convict labor they would be depriving many laboring men of work. Walworth is the latest county to hold this view.

WHY DINING CAR CHEFS PREFER KG BAKING POWDER
Those who have had cakes ruined by jarring the stove, slamming the oven door or a heavy footstep, may have wondered how the dining car chef can turn out such marvelous biscuits, hot breads and pastry when his oven is being incessantly jarred and jolted and shaken by the motion of the train.

To get pastry to raise and stay raised under these conditions, a baking powder must be used that continues to give off its leavening gas—that sustains the raise—until the dough is baked through.

Dining Car Chefs have found a baking powder exactly suited to their needs in K C and you will find it just as well suited to your requirements. K C is really a blend of two baking powders, one active as soon as moistened, the other requiring both moisture and heat to start the generation of leavening gas. No matter how moist and rich you make your cake, K C Baking Powder will sustain the raise until a crust is formed and all danger of falling is past.

K C Baking Powder is pure and healthful. It is guaranteed under all pure food laws, and is guaranteed to please you. And it is sold at a reasonable price—no baking powder should sell for more.

Try a can at our risk and be convinced.

SPOTLIGHTS

Homer, Minn.

In many respects Wm. H. Kibbe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is one of the most important of the season's productions. In the first place it serves to exploit the masterpieces of two of Europe's noted artists, i. e., Ralph Brunst's elaborate painting entitled "The Celestial City" and Hartz Veron's picture of the New Orleans slave mart; and secondly, it has brought back into prominence the memories of that grand old lady, Harriet Beecher Stowe, and serves to reveal the beautiful lessons really to be learned by careful attention. Second to the Holy Book does "Uncle Tom's Cabin" rank as a sacred instructor. The pulpit has endorsed it as a moral teacher worthy of mankind's support, while the board of education in many of the large cities has encouraged scholars in witnessing the worthy dramatization of the story that was instrumental in making our country religious, free and happy. Like a poorly composed book, there are many versions of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" now being forced upon the public under embossed covers, which are detrimental to the greatest degree. They are usually shortlived for the people of today are not to be hoodwinked as easily as those of not so many years ago. It is a known fact that Mr. Wm. H. Kibbe possesses the original version of Mrs. Stowe's story and that it has been unanimously accepted by the press, pulpit and public of America and England. The Kibbe revival will be brought to the La Crosse theater Sunday matinee and night.

MILLIONS IN SILK BEAT EXPRESS TIME TO DEFEAT WORMS

Four Million Dollars' Worth of Silk Cocoons Whirl Past City to Get to Mills Before Worms Emerge

To beat a lowly worm, four million dollars' worth of raw silk dashed through La Crosse yesterday at express train speed over the Milwaukee road, en route from Seattle docks to silk mills in the eastern part of the country. The silk was contained in sixteen cars, and was one of the largest shipments ever sent across the country.

The silk in the sixteen cars is in the shape of cocoons of the silk-worm moth. Each contains a living worm, that in the fulness of time eats his way, if uninterrupted, through the end of the cocoon. The emergence of the worm divides the threads of which the cocoon is formed, and greatly reduces its value in the manufacture of silk.

This was the explanation offered today of the extreme haste with which silk trains are rushed across the country. The cocoons are brought from the Orient, and the time of the shipment is so long that it becomes a matter of hours to get the cocoons to the mills before the worms eat their way through. At the mills the cocoons are dropped into hot vats which promptly kill the worm.

"STAND BY WILSON" SAYS "UNCLE JOE"

CHICAGO, Dec. 3.—"Uncle Joe" Cannon, ex-speaker of the house, is going to Washington next week carrying with him the most important mission since he first went there as a representative forty odd years ago. The Danville sage intends to live down a "reputation for wickedness" which he feels has been unjustly thrust upon him. He said so in an interview at the Union League club. And throughout the talk he maintained a decorum in choice of phrase and gesture that spoke well for the success of his mission. Even the once ubiquitous stogie had been replaced with a black, fat cigar. The former speaker said he is not at all concerned over possibility of the United States being drawn into the European conflict. He said he has more concern for possibilities of danger in the Mexican situation.

"I didn't vote for Mr. Wilson in 1912 and I won't vote for him in 1916," he said, "but I won't criticize his attitude in the European matter. It is not a time for partisanship. It is a time for everyone to support the president of the United States."

"What do you think of the administration's preparedness program?" he was asked.

"I don't care to discuss Garrison's army plans; I don't care to mention Daniels' navy proposals. I do care to say, however, that we must have an efficient navy of sufficient size and a standing army of proportions that will be insurance against war and assurance to our people that we will be safe in all events."

"I have not read what recommendations along this line have been suggested, but I will venture to say —" and there was a spark of the former old flash in his eye—"that they will be different from those countenanced—but not made—twelve months ago, in speeches."

Adoption of a cloture rule by the senate, Cannon said, would be a serious mistake.

"We of the house," he said, "are hot heads, I'm one. I'm old enough, though, to try to live down that as well as an unjustly acquired reputation for wickedness. The house is bound, on occasions, to be radical and suggest radical legislation. The senate sometimes needs a filibuster to give the people time to think deeply on a matter. It has been rare when a filibuster was harmful. With the great problems that are bound to come up during this coming session, the senate, more than ever must be the 'deliberative' body it is supposed to be."

"And that's all I'll say, until I say it in congress."

SOLDIERS BECOME HARDENED TO THE HORRORS OF WAR

Scenes of Battlefield in Most Cases, It Would Seem, Would Cause Insanity

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent.) WITH THE FRENCH ARMY IN CHAMPAGNE, Oct. 25.—(By Mail.)—"How can they stand it? I should think the soldiers living with Death and the Dead about them all the time would go insane." One frequently hears that. The answer is easy. The men very quickly get used to it all. Take this example:

As our party returned to the motor cars today at sundown, after walking over the champagne battlefield, two carts pushed quickly past us. On a canvas stretcher beneath the horse-shoe axle of each, lay a soldier, fully clothed.

"Wounded?" someone asked. "Yes," said an officer, and changed the subject. But the soldiers pushing the carts were strangely careless with the wounded men. They walked rapidly and took no pains to keep the wheels out of the smaller shell holes. The forms rocked and pitched and swayed. The odd attitude of one of them fascinated me;

he was on his back, his arms crossed before, but not touching his face nor touching each other. With every lurch of the cart his arms swayed about rigidly and stuck just where they were.

A second man accompanied each vehicle and these two were "kidding" each other. The first threw a clod at the second and the second replied by flinging his metal helmet at the first. There was a burst of laughter and as the carts stopped to permit the pushers to mop their perspiring brows, the two youngsters—they were about 20—began to chase each other round and round the stretchers.

Meantime we drew up to the little procession. The soldier still lay with his arms crossed as though warding off a blow. The soldiers on the stretchers, of course, were dead; killed the night before in the front trenches and now under cover of the twilight haze, a mixture of purple vapors and cannon smoke, their four fellows were taking the bodies to one of the new Champagne cemeteries at the rear. Lifting the torn cap from the face of the soldier with the crossed arms, some one asked in a hushed voice:

"How did it happen?" "Stray bullet," the cart pusher responded laconically. "Whew! it's pretty warm today!"

The stiff armed soldiers' death had been instantaneous. He stiffened as he had fallen, his arms before his face. He had been a very young man. A small moustache, flaxen light, was on his upper lip. The cap was replaced and we went our way, leaving the living and dead to go theirs.

Now, don't misunderstand me. These four men escorting their dead comrades to the graveyard were not unfeeling nor pitiless in the ordinary sense. Taken from refined homes, probably, where the sight of pain hurt them deeply; and from an environment where the presence of the dead was depressing and awesome, they were suddenly plunged into war and slaughter and agony and death until their senses were deadened. Their power of appreciation had been nullified. Dead men no longer awed them, blood no longer sickened them.

Nature, which makes men fight and mutilate and kill each other, had furnished its own antidote; otherwise these men, instead of "kidding" each other would have been gibbering idiots.

One man—his wife and little girl live in Paris—after serving through the Battle of Champagne, had to be sent to a special hospital. He was not wounded. His nerves had been shattered, his mental balance upset. His brain had not been able to readjust itself. Nature had let him go on weighing and appreciating all the horror about him.

The other condition is the only possible safeguard against insanity. It is the War God's anesthetic.

PRESIDENT MAY STEP IN TO FIX SENATE SQUABBLE

Fear Held Open Break May Result From Fight Over Clarke and Cloture Proposals

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Intervention by President Wilson to heal the growing breach among democratic senators over the re-election of Senator Clarke of Arkansas as president pro tempore and over cloture proposals was imminent today. Fear that the family feuds may develop into open warfare gave rise to reports today that the president would urge the factions to get together. The senate democrats resumed their caucus with deadlocks on both questions.

If the caucus fails to agree upon a cloture plan, Senator Owen and other advocates served warning today they would carry the fight to the senate floor, expecting assistance from progressive republican senators. Hope of adopting a binding pledge upon all democrats was practically abandoned. Anti-cloture senators also threatened to bolt the caucus if an attempt was made to bind them.

Prudence is a real treasurebook which I gladly recommend to readers. Its simplicity of style, intermingled with rare bits of humor and a dash of sentimentality, makes the story a real live wire. —Rev. Charles E. McCallan, D. D. Fairhill Baptist Church, Phila.

LA CROSSE MEN GET EMBLEMS FOR WORK IN FOOTBALL

Stavrum and Gunderson Awarded "W's" at Athletic Board Meeting Wednesday

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 3.—(Special.)—Eddie Stavrum and Bjorge Gunderson of La Crosse were among the members of the 1915 football squad of the University of Wisconsin to receive their official "W's" at a meeting of the athletic board Wednesday night. Seventeen others received the emblems. They were Captain Buck, Smith, Kreuz, Cummings, Gardner, Meyers, Taylor, E. Simpson, G. Simpson, Byers, Pettin-gton, McCrory, Filtzer, Koch, Hancock, Rau and Rieger.

Stavrum played throughout the year at left end and was considered one of the best wing men in the conference. Gunderson played in several games at center, alternating with Pottinger. Stavrum graduates next spring, but Gunderson has another year.

Stavrum played his three years of varsity football under "Bill" Juneau, who handed in his resignation Wednesday night to Regent E. M. McMahon shortly after the board of regents had appointed a special committee of its members with McMahon as chairman to investigate the entire athletic department of the University of Wisconsin.

Worked Hard In concluding his letter of resignation Juneau said: "I want your committee and the board of regents to know that under no circumstances do I want to be considered for re-election as head football and baseball coach. I want to be free to furnish such information as shall make for a more intelligent solution of the athletic problem. In all this I have as my purpose only the best interests of Wisconsin for which I have fought as a football player and a football coach."

Will Handle Baseball Juneau's athletic contract with the university has until July 1 to run, and not to January 1, as has been erroneously reported from various sources. He will have the baseball team under his charge next spring, no matter what action the board of regents now in session may take. He turned out a championship baseball team last spring.

Juneau during his term at Wisconsin has turned out one championship team. This year, despite the rocky reports of the press agents, the Badger eleven failed to live up to advance promises, and was hopelessly in the rut.

Complete Text Of La Follette's Richland Center Attack Upon Present State Administration

"Emanuel L. Philipp made his campaign for nomination against the progressive government as established from 1901 to 1914, and the progressive legislation enacted during those years.

"He was nominated for governor in September, 1914, receiving a little more than one-third of the total republican vote cast in that primary election. His nomination was made possible because of the division of the progressive republican vote among several candidates.

"In his speech at Waukesha opening his campaign for the nomination, he charged that progressive republican government was a 'steady and unchecked growth of public expenditures which have reached a point of oppressive taxation and extravagance.' He charged that it was a 'reckless and wasteful use of the taxpayers' money, demanding immediate and substantial retrenchment.'

"He charged that the progressive government had established 'useless commissions, more than fifty in number, that have been created largely as a matter of political expediency,' and that there were over 6,000 state employees.

"He charged that the 'cost of state government has increased from $2 per capita in 1900 to more than $5 per capita for every man, woman and child in 1914.'

University Charges

"He charged that 'in common with practically every other institution of the state, the university expenditures have reached a point where it begins to oppress the people,' that 'an examination of state accounts discloses the fact that the cost of that institution has risen from $587,773.03 in 1900 to $2,389,959.02 in 1913'; that the cost to the state per capita for students attending has risen from $324.11 in 1900 to $502.63 in 1913.

"He charged that much has been claimed in this state by an element of politicians in behalf of the university experts and the necessity of employing that class of men to conduct the affairs of state government; and asserted that such claim 'is manifestly an acknowledgement of weakness on the part of men whom the people have chosen to conduct their public affairs.' He adds: 'If the men who are employed in the university are best qualified to conduct the affairs of the state, it would be the part of wisdom for the people to elect them to fill public offices.'

"These are the principal charges upon which Mr. Philipp conducted his campaign for nomination. "Through seven campaigns, extending over a period of fourteen years, the people of the state had voted overwhelmingly for the nomination and election of progressive republican candidates, standing upon platforms which declared for exactly the part of government that Philipp assaulted. It is clear therefore, that he did not seek or expect to receive the vote of the progressive republicans in his campaign for the nomination.

"His Waukesha speech was designed and his primary campaign directed manifestly to secure the solid reactionary vote to the state. "Obviously he counted on succeeding in that campaign because of the division of the republican progressive vote between several progressive candidates. The result justified his expectations. He was nominated, receiving, as I say, one-third of the total republican vote cast at the primary.

"I submit to you that a sincere man, who had expressed his convictions in the primary campaign, was bound in good conscience to contend for the same issues in his campaign for election as governor.

"What did Mr. Philipp do? "September 16th, 1914, immediately following the primary election, he joined with other candidates in issuing a platform upon which to go to the people of the state for their votes on the third day of November.

Philipp Charges Did that platform charge the preceding republican administrations with having foisted upon the people of Wisconsin 'oppressive taxation and extravagance,' with having increased the cost of state government 'from $2 per capita to more than $5 per capita,' with a 'reckless and wasteful use of the taxpayers' money,' with having created 'more than fifty useless commissions,' as a matter of political expediency; with having increased the cost per capita of education at the university from $324 in 1900 to $502 in 1913?

"No, no. "Philipp flopped. "He gave the people of Wisconsin an exhibition of his true character. He secured his nomination in a campaign in which he vilified and abused the progressive government from 1901 to 1914. But he was out now for the election! And he joined in framing the platform upon which to secure the votes of the progressive republicans of the state.

"That platform declared that: "The republican party in the state has never failed in its promises to the people.

"Its achievements have been the beacon lights of legislation and human advancement, and among the many of recent years the following are a few. "A stringent corrupt practices act. "A railroad commission. "A dairy and food law which protects both the producer and consumer. "Wise legislation for the better protection of health and sanitation. "A two-cent passenger fare on railroads. "A law providing shorter hours for railway employees. "An eight-hour labor law on public buildings and public works.

"A reasonable child labor law.

"A law which makes it mandatory for minors engaged in manual labor to receive a certain amount of educational instruction.

"A public utilities law which regulates the rates and manner of service of gas and electric light companies and other similar agencies.

"A workmen's compensation law and an industrial commission to enforce and carry out its provisions.

"Advanced legislation for the protection of labor engaged in industries against accidents by dangerous machinery and dangerous surroundings.

"Legislation protecting the health and sanitation of those employed in industrial and mercantile pursuits.

"Laws limiting the hours of female labor.

"Legislation to conserve our natural resources and the taxpayers. But he understood also the protection of fish and game.

"An effective weights and measures law protecting the consumer in his just rights.

"Legislation authorizing co-operative societies.

"Legislation regulating the issuance and sale of corporate stock, thereby protecting manufacturers and merchants seeking capital, as well as protecting the innocent investor.

"Beneficial agricultural and dairy education which now place Wisconsin in the position of producing more cheese than any other state in the union.

"Humane legislation to aid dependent mothers.

"Legislation permitting the employment of prison labor on highways.

"Reasonable and efficient insurance legislation providing for supervision.

"Unfair trade legislation which seeks to prohibit the destruction of competition.

"In the closing paragraph of the platform appears the faintest echo of Philipp's vociferous campaign against the 'university extravagance' and 'useless commissions.' It is soft and gentle as the cooing of a dove. He says:

"The expenses of the university have become large and must be limited to a sum the people can afford to pay."

"And there is a three-line suggestion that some commissions may be abolished. Instead of the 'fifty useless commissions' about which so much was heard in the primary campaign, only those are to be abolished which 'can be dispensed with.'

The Tax Case "But the whole case which Mr. Philipp had made against the excessive taxation of progressive government is not to be found within the four corners of this platform. Its closing paragraph fairly gushes with praise and slandering encomium for the low taxes to which the people have been subjected for a period of ten years. Listen to it:

"No tax for state purposes." "The policy of Wisconsin for a period of almost a dozen years, in the ten years before last year the state turned back to the people to help them run their local governments, all that it took from them in direct taxes and almost $2,000,000 more. The sum of the state taxes levied for this ten-year period was $123,120,937, while the total amount of the payments by the state to its subdivision during the same period for the support of the common schools, for county agricultural fairs, for the improvement of highways and bridges, and for other similar items purely local in their nature, was $125,038,823.33. The difference is $1,917,886.1, and represents the balance in favor

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

We eat too much meat which clogs Kidneys, then the Back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean, and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless, inexpensive, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

New York Stocks
NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Bear traders, who sent stocks fractionally off at the opening of the stock market today, were routed during the early trading by rallies which sent prices upward.

United States Steel which opened at 84 1/2, advanced to 85 1/2 at 10:30. Texas company jumped five points to 212. Led by Maxwell, which sold up two at 74. Motor stocks were strong.

U. S. Steel sold at 86 3/4 this afternoon, 1 1/2 above the day's low price. Eighty thousand of the four hundred thousand shares of stock traded up to 2 o'clock were Steel. With Steel as a leader, the strength spread throughout the list.

The upward spurt in prices did not last long. The market turned dull around noon time. Some of the war stocks still held strong.

International Nickel sold up 9 1/2 from today's opening price at 189 1/2. The stock market closed dull.

COMPLETE TEXT OF LA FOLLETTE TALK IN RICHLAND CENTER of the state in its dealings with the people during the ten years prior to 1913.

"And this flattering tribute to the progressive administration from 1902 to and including 1912 is the platform declaration in which Mr. Philipp and his supporters join in commending the financial management of the administrations of La Follette, Davidson, and McGovern, after a primary campaign rank with charges of 'oppressive taxation' and a 'reckless and wasteful use of the taxpayers' money.'

"Having secured the nomination, he then faces around the other way, and in effect confesses the falsity of his primary election charges, and declares that the same public officials he had been denouncing all summer had, in the ten years of progressive government 'turned back to the people to help them run their local governments all that had been paid from them in direct taxes, and almost $2,000,000 more.'

"Can you reconcile such conduct with sincerity of conviction and honesty of purpose?"

"If Mr. Philipp was sincere when, beginning in June and throughout his entire primary campaign he went up and down the state proclaiming that the progressive administration from 1901 to 1914 had debauched

the public service, loaded the state's payroll with unnecessary employees, recklessly and wantonly taxed the people of Wisconsin to maintain fifty useless boards and commissions, imposing millions of unnecessary taxes upon the industries and toilers of this commonwealth, then do you believe he was honest, when, in September, he began his campaign for election with a platform proclaiming that the achievements of the very same progressive administration he has so violently denounced, were the 'beacon lights of human advancement,' and in ten years had 'turned back to the people to help run their local governments all that it had taken from them in direct taxes and almost $2,000,000 more?'

"Whether the man meant what he said in his primary campaign, or stood for election on a platform which abounded in approval and endorsement of progressive legislation, and unstinted praise for having paid back to the people nearly $2,000,000 more than it had taken from them in direct taxes in ten years, is best shown by what he had to say as soon as his election had been declared at the polls on the third day of November.

Then Felt Secure
"On the morning of the fourth he felt secure. There was no longer need for fine phrases. And it was then that in triumph he turned upon the progressive government of Wisconsin that had become famous everywhere as the Wisconsin idea, and gave expression to his contempt for everything progressive Wisconsin had achieved.

"It was the real Philipp who said: 'The victory is a complete repudiation tion of the much-heralded Wisconsin idea.'

"Of course Mr. Philipp understood that the people of Wisconsin in electing him governor, had not repudiated the Wisconsin idea. He knew perfectly well that a majority of the voters of the state had on that issue, for fourteen years, overwhelmingly defeated him and his standpat faction in the republican party. And so, having secured the nomination, he and his supporters made a platform, to catch the progressive republican vote. And in his campaign for the election he said again and again:

"The laws referred to in the platform as achievements of the republican party, have my full approval."

"That quieted the suspicions of thousands of progressive republicans, who were afraid of Philipp."

"But running through his campaign speeches for the election were the oft-repeated promises to reduce taxation, cheaper government for the people. He understood human nature well enough to know that tax reduction would be welcomed by all that a majority of the voters of Wisconsin were loyal to progressive government, and that they would be jealous of any assault upon the great constructive work which had made Wisconsin known all over the world.

"Hence for campaign purposes prior to the election he assured progressive voters that he would guard and protect the progressive achievements which had become 'beacon lights of legislation and human advancement' while at the same time, he pledged great reductions in taxes.

The Two Pledges

"It may therefore be said that Mr. Philipp came into power upon two specific and vitally important pledges, namely:

"First: That the great achievements of the progressive government of Wisconsin would be preserved.

"Second: That the cost of government would be greatly reduced.

"Within the compass of one address I cannot cover both of these propositions. Indeed, in discussing what has befallen progressive government under the Philipp administration, I shall make hereafter the subject of several independent addresses. But because of its immediate interest I shall address myself tonight to the question:

"Has this administration materially reduced the cost of state government to the taxpayers of Wisconsin?"

"Philipp has been in office ten months.

"The legislature, which holds but one regular session during his term of office, has completed its work.

"Hence a review of Governor Philipp's legislative recommendations and his executive acts will enable the people of Wisconsin to determine his real purposes toward the achievements of progressive government which his platform declared to be 'the beacon lights of legislation and human advancement' in recent years. It will also enable the people of Wisconsin to determine the true value of his campaign promises to put an end to what he termed 'the reckless and wasteful use of the taxpayers' money.'

"When the legislature met, the governor was able to elect as speaker his friend, Laurence C. Whittet, and through him control the appointment of all committees having charge of legislation in the assembly.

"He likewise controlled the organization of the senate. Three close followers of the governor were selected as members of the committee on committees, with authority to name the legislative committees of the senate. This effected a complete control of legislation in that body.

"Thus the organization of both branches of the legislature was dictated by the governor and his friends.

"Upon Governor Philipp, therefore, in large measure rests the responsibility for the record made by the legislature in session for the longest period in the state's history.

"Let us examine the record made by the Philipp administration and the Philipp legislature.

"What have they done to relieve the people from 'oppressive taxation and extravagance' which Mr. Philipp charged they were suffering at the hands of the progressive republican government?"

"How many of the useless commissions, more than fifty in number, to quote his exact words, has he abolished?"

"How many new commissions have been created under his administration?"

"How about salaries?"

"How does the salary list of the Philipp administration compare with the preceding administration?"

"What immediate and substantial retrenchment has been made by the Philipp administration?"

"In discussing state finances and the cost of state government, it is necessary to define some of the terms which must be used.

"There are in this state four separate funds out of which the bulk of state expenditure are disbursed. They are:

"First: The general fund.

"Second: The common school fund income.

"Third: The normal school fund income.

"Fourth: The university fund income.

"A sum slightly in excess of the 7-10 mill tax is apportioned out of the school fund income to the various school districts of the state.

"The school, normal and university funds ultimately disburse about 40 per cent of the sum total of the annual state expenditures. The remaining 60 per cent is disbursed out of the general fund.

"Annual appropriations to state departments, institutions, boards and commissions to pay the costs of operation are made continuing appropriations, except for such as are of a purely temporary character.

"A continuing appropriation is an annual appropriation, whether limited or unlimited, which continues indefinitely in the absence of either a decrease or increase made by the legislature. As a result of providing continuing appropriations, in most departments and institutions of the state, there remains out of the amount annually appropriated, an unused balance at the end of the fiscal year, available for the department or institution the succeeding year, unless specifically repealed by the legislature. These unused balances are called 'unexpended balances.'

"There is also a class of appropriation called 'revolving appropriations.' Revolving appropriations are not appropriations at all in the ordinary meaning of the term. The money covered by the term 'revolving appropriations' is derived from the receipts of any department, institution, or state activity in the conduct of its business. Such receipts are transferred to the state treasury, and by specific appropriation or by operation of law, are returned to the department from which derived.

Changes in 1913

"The policy of having all money treasury was instituted in 1913 and necessitates this form of appropriation. Before this legislation of 1913 such moneys were paid to the state treasurer, who by statute was made the treasurer for each of the departments, commissions, or institutions which earned or received money in the conduct of its business. Such moneys became no part of the general fund, but were segregated in separate accounts and drawn upon as a separate deposit by such department, commission or institution. The term 'appropriation' is confusing, and offers opportunity for juggling the figures and making it appear that a revolving fund transaction or revolving appropriation represents money raised by the taxing power of the state and disbursed from the treasury following legislative action appropriating the same to a certain use.

"Revolving appropriations have no relation to the cost of state government. They represent in each case the deposit in the state treasury of a given sum, and the return of the same sum by appropriation to the department, institution or agency from which it was received.

"Once in the state treasury, money from whatever source derived, can only be taken out by legislative appropriation, since the constitution of the state provides: 'No money received by any agent of the state in any capacity, shall be paid out of the treasury except in pursuance of an appropriation by law.'

"The operation of the binder excellent example of this form of appropriation.

"The legislature of 1907 provided for the erection of a building in connection with the state prison at Waupun to be used for the manufacture of binder twine, in which the labor of prisoners was to be employed. The legislature of 1911 made the necessary appropriation for equipping the plant and inaugurating the manufacture of twine. Under the law the product is sold and the proceeds collected by the warden of the prison, or his agent. The statute further provides that such money shall be paid into the general fund of the state treasury. It further provides that all such deposits are appropriated to the board of coning sources: Students' fees $382,241.15 Sales of various farm products 164,146.97 Direct aid from the federal government $0,000.00 Interest from University fund investments 31,874.54 Gifts 11,245.17 Total $669,507.83

"For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1914, the revolving appropriation for the binder twine plant, amounted to $393,609.27.

"An unfair critic for the purpose of making the cost of state government appear as large as possible, could include this amount among the appropriations made for that year. But that would make the cost of state government appear $393,609.27 more than was expended for state government, because that amount was not paid in to the treasury as a tax gathered from the people of the state but was paid in to earnings of one of the state's institutions and appropriated back to the institution where it rightfully belonged.

"Mr. Philipp and his friends invariably exaggerated the cost of progressive state government, by including all appropriations of this character in statements of alleged state expenditures derived from taxation.

Cost of University

"The earnings and other receipts of the state university in 1913 became a revolving appropriation. They likewise have been distorted and made to appear an expense to meet which taxes are collected from the people.

"In Mr. Philipp's speech at Waushara, made July 15, 1914, which was printed and distributed throughout the state, referring to the university (Page 6) he said:

"Its expenditures have reached a point where it begins to oppress the people. An examination of the state accounts discloses the fact that the cost of that institution was $2,389,959.02 in 1913."

"These figures purporting to state the cost of the university for 1913 are $11,095.33 more than the total amount of both receipts and disbursments of the university for that year. But that is a small matter.

"The important thing and the reprehensible thing about Mr. Philipp's statement is that he gave the people to understand that they were being oppressed by a burdensome expenditure of more than two and a quarter million dollars for maintaining the university in the year 1913.

"Now, this was a gross misstatement, and overstated the cost of running the university more than 28 per cent.

"It wrongfully included as an expenditure $669,507.83 of revolving appropriations which represented receipts instead of expenses. These receipts were derived from the following sources:

Students' fees $382,241.15 Sales of various farm products 164,146.97 Direct aid from the federal government $0,000.00 Interest from University fund investments 31,874.54 Gifts 11,245.17

Total $669,507.83
"This amount was paid into the general fund of the state treasury from the sources named, and afterward appropriated from that fund and returned to the university, where it belonged. Therefore it should not be added to the amount contributed by the people through taxation.

"Deducting this amount from the total amount expended by the university, $2,378,863.68, gives $1,709,355.86 as the amount actually raised by taxes for the university that year.

"In order to ascertain whether this administration has materially reduced the cost of state government, it is necessary to establish at some point in the discussion what was the actual cost of progressive state government, as a base from which to determine reductions or increases under the present administration. And since Mr. Philipp's misstatement regarding the university is typical of his misrepresentations as to the real cost of progressive government generally, I will conclude my analysis of it in this connection."

Prudence is a clean story of a phase of life little understood by most people. I wish all church members could read it, and thereby get a glimpse of themselves.—Rev. W. B. Greenway, D. D. Gaston Presbyterian Church, Phila.
